STREET PEOPLE FEEDING PROGRAMME - For the Hungry and the Homeless

Across the city of Kingston on any given day, it would be difficult to ignore the many persons for whom life unfolds on the streets. Whether in the shopping district of downtown Kingston or the plazas and major roadways in more up-town locations, men and women – some young, some elderly – try to make some semblance of normal life, vulnerable to many factors, mostly hunger and homelessness.

This cannot be ignored. And that was the reason the Street People Feeding Programme came about – to try and address the conditions of the poor and indigent in spite of their dismal circumstances.

Founded by CBA Management Committee Member Mr. Lloyd Hoo, the Street People Feeding Programme has grown immensely, becoming an outlet for serving the poor and marginalised.

The Team Leader who makes sure that everything gets done in preparation for the distribution of lunches is Karen Hoo, whose team comprises mostly of teenagers and other youngsters who are members of the CBA. The Street Feeding Programme helps them to learn that giving back and caring for those who cannot care for themselves, is an important life lesson that they can take right into their grownup lives.

Welcome to the Chinese New Year at CBA News!

As always, in addition to the festivities, we look carefully to the Chinese zodiac to contemplate which features and characteristics each animal brings to the Chinese lunar year. This is the Year of the Pig, which has qualities including tolerance, understanding, patience and intelligence.

Our Spring Festival Garden Party 2019 was a success, based on feedback from families, friends and patrons we have been happy to welcome to the CBA Centre. The traditional Chinese dinner on offer was enjoyed, as presented from Taurus Court Restaurant and Dragon Palace Restaurant. The concert afterwards was filled with excellent talent and we take off our hats to our Board Secretary Marcia Harford who created a programme of excitement and quality performances.

One of our articles in your March 2019 edition features one of the most accomplished persons that we have ever carried in the pages of our newsletter. Professor Herbert Ho Ping Kong, O.D., a distinguished physician and son of Jamaican soil was presented with the Gold Musgrave Medal for his eminent work in Science, at the Institute of Jamaica, East Street in Kingston. Our congratulations to you again, Professor!

There is also something else of which we can be proud – our Jamaica Chinese Historical Museum, located at the CBA Centre is fast becoming a very sought after educational resource for school children drawn from schools across the corporate area, with one school visiting from as far away as the parish of St. Thomas. So far, some 180 students from age five to age twelve from seven schools have taken the Museum Tour – and they're thrilled by what they see, especially the colourful dragons and lion heads in the dance room!

In addition, we have refreshed leadership for the CBA, having formally elected and sworn-in our Board of Management in November 2018. We are humbled by the faith you have placed in us and will be committed to serving you for the rest of 2019.

Our CBA Outreach Programme has been nothing short of inspirational as Team Leader Karen Hoo and her team of volunteers continue to remember and serve the indigent under the Street People Feeding Programme. Thank you Karen, for all your hard work as you continue to spread light to the underserved wherever you go.

Lastly, we bid a heart-felt goodbye and farewell to Johnny Chuck, one of the CBA Centre's founding fathers and cooking expert extraordinaire. "Uncle Johnny", as well as those others who have passed, will always be remembered in our hearts.

年春节游园晚会 SPRING FESTIVAL GARDEN PARTY 2019

It was a celebration matched by merriment in abundance when the families, friends and special guests of the Chinese Benevolent Association gathered on a weather-perfect afternoon, Sunday February 17, to observe the Chinese New Year 2019, at the CBA Centre.

It is the Year of the Pig and accordingly, those born under this sign are generous, reliable, patient and understanding. Under the Chinese lunar calendar, the pig symbolises good health, good luck and good fortune.

Opening the showcase of presentations were the children of the CBA Mandarin Class, who sang both the Jamaican and Chinese national anthems. CBA President Robert Hew presented the children with fung bao (red envelopes) as they exited the stage, after which our President delivered the Welcome address, followed by a greeting to all present from Mr. Yang Wenxu, Chargé d'Affaires of the Embassy of the People's Republic of China.

The outstanding roster of performers included Nishida's Gymnastic School, the Dance Group X9, dances with the International Youth Fellowship and Michael Yin, whose repertoire included "Work Hard and Win" in Chinese, and the unforgettable "Unchained Melody".

Violinist Dr. Jessica Yap and artiste Gem Myers brought that special ambience which echoed several timeless hits. Navigating the programme were emcees Dervan Malcolm and Eva Young. A special acknowledgement goes to our Board Secretary Marcia Harford, whose concert-planning expertise earns our appreciation year after year.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TOUR THE JAMAICA CHINESE HISTORICAL MUSEUM AT THE CBA

Over recent weeks, there has been a steady growth in the number of schools which have visited the CBA to tour our Chinese Museum and there are still other schools who continue to call us, asking for additional tours as well.

So far, dating from October 2018, the following are some of the schools which have visited:

1. Meadowbrook Prep
2. New Hope Prep
3. Foursquare Basic School
4. Holiness Basic School
5. Kingdom Kids Prep
6. Grants Pen Primary and Infant School

With all these schools combined, we have met approximately 180 youngsters who have enjoyed themselves thoroughly. They have ranged in age from 5 years old to age 12 years, and have been accompanied by their teachers and, at times, by interested parents as well. One of the school buses travelled from the parish of St. Thomas on a field trip to Kingston, thereby including the CBA on their list of things to see and do, while in town.

They have good reason to have enjoyed their school trip. Their young faces have been a picture of fascination, whether they are seeing traditional Chinese musical instruments (the erhu and the pipa) or the figurines made from delicate porcelain.

However, nothing is more awe inspiring than when the tour moves to the Dance Room where the dragons and lion heads are carefully stored. One look from the entrance to the room and there are squeals of delight from the children, as they view the colourful and festive costumes for which the Chinese community is famous worldwide.

Their questions are many and varied. Many of the older children have their notebooks ready to take notes on what they have seen and learnt.

Quite often, they make sure to get answers to what will appear on their test papers. While speaking with the teachers, it is clear that the CBA Tour is for more than just fun.

The Ministry of Education has mandated that students in the school system are to be made aware of the various ethnic communities represented in Jamaica and learn how they have contributed to the economy and development of the island's history and culture. According to the teachers, this is an important part stipulated by the school curriculum.

This year, the very first tour of the Chinese Museum was conducted by Board Secretary Marcia Harford who took time from her busy schedule to lead the students through the many artefacts and porcelain items, many of which were very kindly donated by members of the Chinese Benevolent Association, and our affiliated Chinese organisations.

Very importantly, the installation of the items in the CBA's Chinese Museum was designed by our tireless Michael Ho Sue in cooperation with Marcia Harford and Yanique Lee. Their efforts have not gone unrewarded. Just by the reactions of our young guests, it is clear to see that our colleagues' hard work has been successful.

We can tell that when these young children grow up, their visit to the CBA will have pride of place in their minds for years to come.

Distinguished Professor Ho Ping Kong Awarded Gold Musgrave Medal

It was a time for honouring outstanding accomplishments when Professor Herbert Ho Ping Kong, O.D., a distinguished physician and son of Jamaican soil was presented with the Gold Musgrave Medal for eminence in Science at the Council Chamber, Institute of Jamaica, 10-16 East Street in Kingston on Wednesday September 5.

Joined by his family including his wife Dr. Barbara Ho Ping Kong; daughter Christine Ho Ping Kong; grandchildren Ian and Abbe Tan and brother Lloyd Hoo, Management Committee Member of the Chinese Benevolent Association; the Gold Musgrave Medal was formally presented to Professor Ho Ping Kong by Professor Emeritus Sir Fitzroy Augier, Fellow of the Institute of Jamaica.

The visiting Professor's Citation was read by Professor Ronald Young, Chairman, Board of Management, Natural History Museum of Jamaica and Member of Council, Institute of Jamaica. Also participating in the distinguished ceremony were Howard Mitchell, Chairman of Council, Institute of Jamaica; Marigold Harding, Deputy Chairman of Council and Chair-Musgrave Selection Committee; Dr. Barbara Gloudon; Steven Golding, Patrick Stanigar, Judge Pamela Appelt, Professor Rupert Lewis and Vivian Crawford, Executive Director, Institute of Jamaica.

Born in Summerfield, Clarendon, Professor Ho Ping Kong displayed an aptitude for the medical sciences at an early age, spending part of his youth in the Rockfort community in Kingston and attended St. George's College. He completed his first degree at the University College of the West Indies and furthered his studies in England, returning to Jamaica to teach at both St. George's College and the University of the West Indies, before emigrating to Canada in 1973.

Most famous for his excellence in teaching, Professor Ho Ping Kong has won multiple awards, including the prestigious National 3M Teaching Fellow of Canada in 1999 (Canada's highest award for teaching in any university discipline) and the National Osler Award of Excellence for the Canadian Society of Internal Medicine in 2003.

A well-known internist, his similarly pioneering method of diagnosis is based on his belief that medicine is as much art as it is science. Although recognising the technological advances in medical diagnostic testing, he is an advocate of physicians developing more basic skills that rely heavily on human interaction. Based on this approach, his findings were documented in his 2014 publication "The Art of Medicine: Healing and the Limits of Technology", which was based on his personal cases and over more than fifty years' experience as a clinician.

While Canada has been his home for the last four decades, this eminent professor has never forgotten the land of his birth. He spearheaded a programme for Jamaican doctors to receive specialist training at Canada's University Health Network. As an integral part of the fundraising efforts of the Canadian Diaspora community, over one million Canadian dollars was raised to provide scholarships for over 230 Caribbean students. To recognise his significant contributions, the Government of Jamaica awarded him the Order of Distinction in October 2015.

Professor Ho Ping Kong also assisted with the formation of the Forensic Pathology Training Programme at the University of Toronto, led by Dr. Michael Pollanen, Chief Coroner of Ontario, in cooperation with the late Raymond Chang, his children Andrew and Bridget Chang and his wife Mrs. Donnette Chin Loy Chang. Some 4.5 Million Canadian Dollars was raised by this sponsored effort.

The presentation of the Gold Musgrave Medal was followed by a reception at the Jamaica Pegasus Hotel, at which numerous members of the medical fraternity were in attendance.

The Musgrave Awards was founded in 1889 as a memorial to Sir Anthony Musgrave, Governor of Jamaica from 1877 to 1883, who founded the Institute of Jamaica in 1879. The Medal is the oldest of its kind in the Western Hemisphere.

THE LION DANCE TAKES ON THE CITY OF KINGSTON

On Saturday February 2 2019, the city of Kingston witnessed a festive spectacle that is becoming very much a revitalised tradition for the Chinese community in Jamaica. That tradition is the Lion Dance, which had fallen into inactivity for many years.

However, thanks to the initiative of CBA President Robert Hew, the Lion Dance custom of celebrating the Chinese New Year and bringing good luck was revived last year in February 2018. And what a spectacular vision it was!

First stop was Princess Street in downtown Kingston where the two lions (one red, one gold) performed their routine at the front of Chinese-owned establishments, consuming lettuce and then spitting it out to convey good luck and protection from evil spirits. The lions also stood up and removed red envelopes with gifts of money, a signal that the establishment would prosper and accumulate wealth.

A memorable stop was Barry Street with the lion dance team dancing at the Chinese Temple. It was a stop which was worthy of attention as the history of the Temple as a meeting place for the Chinese merchant community of former years was blended with the vibrant youth of today's team, as many noted how far our Community has come across many decades of hard work and sacrifice. Our convoy (with the TVJ producer and camera man) made its way to environs more uptown, where similar stops were made including Macau Gaming Lounge and Bar in Dunrobin; Island Grill in Twin Gates Plaza; and to Liguanea Plaza where the lions fascinated both children and adults alike at Liguanea Drug & Garden Centre; General Foods Supermarket and Heecha Bubble Tea.

Last stop was a private residence in Millsborough where the lions, having meandered across Kingston, finally rested before returning to the CBA Centre on Old Hope Road.

Here are some images which capture the festivity!

TRIBUTE TO WINSTON CHUNG FAH

Contributed by Patrick Chin

The time that we, as humans, spend on earth is relatively short but the impact that we make on peoples' lives during this time is what is important as our accomplishments and deeds are what will be permanently recorded in history and engraved in the minds and hearts of those who have benefitted from these unselfish acts or who have witnessed the positive effects they have had on Society on a whole.

Undoubtedly, the life of Winston Chung Fah deserves pride of place in this Humanitarian Service Category in Jamaica as he has relentlessly devoted his entire tenure on earth to improving the status of youths, primarily in the inner cities, through the access to education and the development of their inborn skills in the sport of football.

Born on December 3, 1939 in Blackwoods, Clarendon, Winston grew up in Rae Town, a so-called lowly area of society and, not only observed the injustices and deprivation meted out to the peoples of these Communities but also experienced the degradation of exclusion and the stigma of being labeled 'undesirables' and 'under-privileged'.

I, myself, grew up in a neighboring humble community; however, our paths did not cross until I had reached adolescence when I began representing my High School in the sport of football, which became the binding force between Winston and me.

With the passage of time, the vast majority in these communities had grown to accept this horrifying mental indoctrination and resigned themselves to a life of menial existence.

Some of the youths, however, rebelled against this life-style and took matters into their own hands by resorting to a life of crime and violence, which only resulted in their untimely demise or the withdrawal from society through incarceration in the prisons.

Moved by these occurrences, Winston, in a joint effort with one of the more influential youths in the community, established the Doncaster-Rovers Football Club, which participated in the Division 2 Competition, run by the Jamaica Football Association. This other young man, by sheer determination and hard work, eventually became the Auditor-General of Jamaica.

After a period of two years, Winston parted company with this Club and individually took on the challenge to change the status quo that had existed throughout the entire lives of several generations before him and, his first course of action was to gather the youths and to hone their skills in the sport of football, which was one of his passions, although he, himself, lacked the innate skills to perform at the level he aspired for.

It was not difficult for Winston to attract these youths, as football was played on every street or vacant lots in these communities on a daily basis. He therefore got together a representative group of youngsters of varying ages, including myself, to participate in Youth Club Competitions organized by the Sports Development Commission, an arm of the Ministry of Youth. This yielded immediate success as the Team was victorious in these Competitions.

This led Winston to formally establish the Santos Football Club in June 1964 and to apply for entry in the Competitions organized by the Jamaica Football Association (JFA). His application was duly accepted and the Club was registered to participate in the Division II and Division III Competitions.

Upon winning the Division II Competition, the Club automatically gained promotion to Division I, which it duly won in 1968 and 1969, including the Senior Knock-Out Competition, which was contested by Clubs on an islandwide basis.

To fully appreciate the magnitude of these performances, it must be explained that the other competing teams were comprised of adults, many of whom were members of the National Football Squad.

During this time, Winston was diligently seeking opportunities for these youths to obtain a formal education in our High Schools and, while pursuing this initiative, he had garnered the support of several teachers and well-wishers, who had volunteered their services to conduct classes for these youths in the night, free of charge. These classes were conducted at a primary school in the inner city, having obtained the permission from the administrators of the school and the full support of the entire community, which ensured that the children took advantage of this opportunity.

This was indeed a new beginning and hope for these vulnerable youths, who were thrown a lifeline by one of their own community members, who cared and was determined to change the fortunes of the future generations.

As far as Winston was concerned, this was only the first step of a journey that would have discouraged any ordinary person but Winston was no ordinary man and, by sheer determination, he was successful in convincing the Principal of Vere Technical High School in Clarendon and, subsequently, Clarendon College, to offer scholarships to several youths, who had acquired the necessary qualification for entry in High School. In addition, these youths possessed a wealth of talent in football, which would positively impact the School's participation in the football competition which is vigorously contested by all the secondary schools in the island.

At different intervals, these two schools dominated the football competition for many years and, while still attending school, several of these youths gained selection to the National Football Squad and subsequently went on to play professionally overseas.

Notably among these is Allan "Skill" Cole, arguably the best football talent that has been produced in Jamaica and who is probably the only Jamaican to have received a contract to play professionally in Brazil.

During this era, Winston was offered the position as Coach of the Clarendon College Football Squad and the success and consequent fame that these schools achieved in football during that time is still a lively topic of discussion by enthusiasts of the game as to which school had produced the best team.

It was indeed gratifying to have witnessed the tremendous success that was achieved by one man's strong desire and conviction to ensure that the access to education is provided to these children, who, under previous circumstances, would not have survived the challenges that would have confronted them in a very disparaging and hostile environment.

Having passed on the mantle of Coach of the Santos Football Club to a qualified successor, Winston went on to pursue higher qualification in the coaching of football in Britain and Europe, and, subsequently, he was recruited by the Cayman Football Association to manage its National Squad, following which, he went on to establish other football clubs in that Island.

In 2012, FIFA, the World Governing Body for Football, bestowed on Winston their Highest Award of The Order of Merit for his contribution to Football.

In 2013, Winston also received the Commander of The Order of Distinction from the Government of Jamaica in recognition of his outstanding contribution and accomplishment in the development of Football in Jamaica.

Although Winston has achieved unprecedented success in football, particularly in the area of coaching, he was still not satisfied to rest on his laurels and, despite his failing health, was diligently working to establish a Football Academy in Jamaica, which would provide the foundation for youths to jointly pursue academic and sporting excellence, primarily in football.

However, The Good Lord in His wisdom, despite allowing extra time to be played in the life of Winston, who was plagued by major illnesses in the latter years of his life, decided that he had performed excellently and had excelled beyond all expectations despite the odds and therefore blew the final whistle to end an outstanding career in the service of his fellowman.

Winston, you have fought the good fight.
Rest well my Friend.

Footnote: It is my personal belief that one of Winston's major accomplishment was when the Lord smiled on him and allowed him to become the husband of Barbara.

I am sure there is a Medal awaiting her in Heaven.

Winston was the Best Man at my wedding forty six years ago and I was privileged to be the Godfather of one of his daughters.

先生，退休快乐！ Happy Retirement Mr. “Percy”!

The man of the moment.

In the latter part of 2018, the CBA bid goodbye to Mr. “Percy”, the caretaker who for 21 years had overseen the CBA premises. The curious thing is, his name was not really “Percy”. It was a nickname given to him by someone else, but nevertheless, even though he is now retired, he will always be known to us as “Percy”.

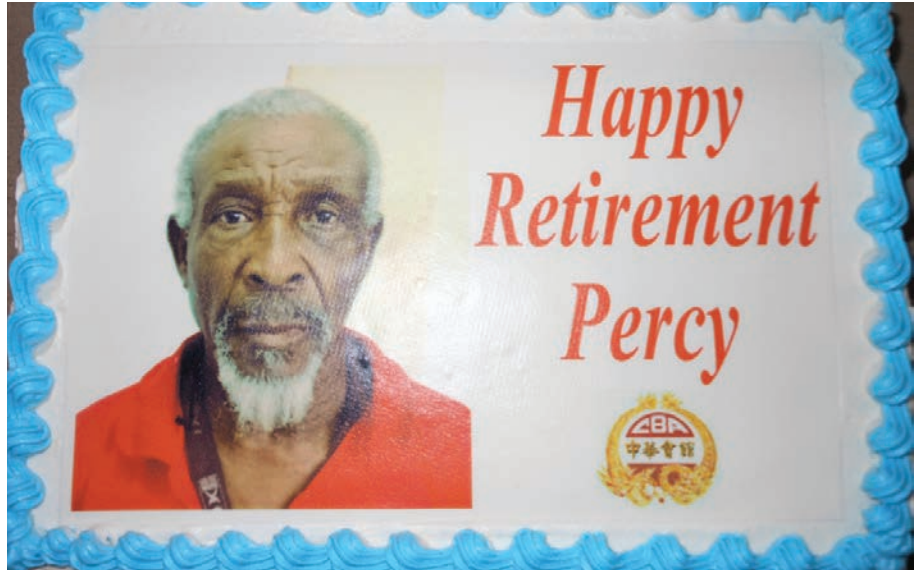

So Percy’s real name is Morgan Miller and he has good memories of his time working at the CBA. He was born on August 22, 1938 so he will celebrate his 80th birthday this summer. He was hired in 1998 to work as caretaker and clearly has good memories of the founding fathers of the CBA Centre including Johnny Chuck, David Chang, Henry Lue and Peter Fung.

His favourite event at the CBA was the annual Spring Festival Garden Party, where he says he was able to participate in “pitching every tent”, as he put it proudly.

When someone is leaving and says “Ah gawn”, Percy always says in return, “Don’t say ‘yuh gawn’ – say yuh not here now!”

His advice to the new caretaker (Alex) at the CBA? Percy says he would tell him “to do his best”.

Have a happy retirement, Mr. Percy!

A delicious cake from Sugar & Spice says it all.

President Robert Hew wishes Mr. Percy well on his retirement.

A delicious dinner to acknowledge Mr. Percy’s retirement.

STREET PEOPLE FEEDING PROGRAMME

Also part of the team is Peter Hugh who transports the lunches in his van and who makes sure that all the deliveries are made in good time. CBA's Immediate Past President Damian Chin and Heather Chin also participate in the programme, assisting where ever possible.

Over the years, the programme has expanded to include Bun and Cheese Treats during the Easter season; the delivery of care packages with personal care items (toothbrushes, deodorant, washcloths, shampoo, soap and lotion are included) and Christmas Treats. The recipients are to be found in several locations, including the Marie Atkins Place of Safety, Silver Slipper Plaza in Cross Roads, Matthew 25:40 and at other homes which are part of the Mustard Seed Communities.

We thank Mr. Hoo and Karen for their outstanding leadership and for providing a forum for our young people to understand and appreciate the significance of assisting the less fortunate.
